The wonderful Luberon area, protected by the Regional Natural Park, offers gourmet and tourist routes around each of the famous wine centres. In this country, the vineyard has chosen as backdrop the “bories” (or drystone shelters), fields of lavender, Atlas cedars, fruit trees, olive trees and ochre quarries... From the vineyards to the villages perched on the hillside, this is how to discover the reality of the Luberon, from the virtually eternal bitterness of the stones to the deep, fleeting joy of sharing a glass of wine together.

Visit the Luberon by means of several routes which mix discovery with pleasure... The red wines of the Luberon slopes are, by very definition, sensual wines with body and character with the aroma of wild scents and fruity sweetness. Rich and heady, they are autumn and winter wines par excellence, perfectly suited to any spicy meal. Fresh and aromatic, the white wines are characterised by their liveliness and elegance with a dominant floral note. They marry harmoniously with fish and are ideal companions for the goats' cheese of the area.

Structured and generous, the rosé wines of the Luberon slopes will be a surprise to many with their freshness and their scent of red fruit. As their structure allows them to be wines for meals, they are totally at ease when accompanying white meat or exotic meals.

As the winegrowers of the Côtes du Luberon wish to make their wines known to as wide a public as possible, they are partners with the Luberon gîtes. In gîtes taking part in the scheme, each new guest is welcomed with a bottle of AOC Côtes du Luberon wine. Donated by a wine cellar near the gîte, this bottle makes it possible to get to know the aromas and scents of Luberon wine.

For information on participating gîtes: 04 90 07 54 40.

A “Côtes du Luberon, Terroirs d'accueil” sign indicates cellars that have signed the Rhone Valley quality charter.

THE ROUTE THROUGH AIGUES COUNTRY CUCURON, PERTUIS, MIRABEAU, GRAMBOIS

Cucuron

The roofs of Cucuron as seen from the terrace of the St. Michel castle afford a unique and famous panorama (film "Le hussard sur le toit"). The old village with its 13th century ramparts (listed historical monuments) reflects the charm of old stones. A pond dating back to 1403 gives all its charm to the Cucuron square with its hundred year old plane trees.

Starting point for a winegrowers' trail (walk through the vineyards).

Pertuis

This small town has succeeded in maintaining the charm of the old country. Its big market (on Friday mornings) and its farmers' market (on Wednesday and Saturday mornings) gives an insight into the riches and variety of this country where agriculture has created magnificent landscapes.

Mirabeau

Mirabeau enjoyed a degree of prosperity thanks to the toll which it collected on shepherds passing through with their flocks. The village was also used as a setting for the film Jean de Florette. by Claude Berri.

Grambois

This picturesque and welcoming village in the Aigues valley, perched 370 m up the steep slope which dominates the Eze valley. On the basis of the relics found here, the village is believed to date back to Celtic and Roman times. Between the 8th and 10th centuries, it became a fortified Saracen village. In the 14th century, Grambois became one of the 12 fortresses in Provence and remnants of the ramparts can still be seen.

IN THE FOOTSTEPS OF THE WALDENSES LA MOTTE D'AIGUES, CABRIÈRES D'AIGUES

The Waldenses: the disciples of Valdès (a merchant from Lyon advocating poverty in the 12th century) declared heretics in 1214, they disperse throughout Europe and France and settle, in particular, in the Luberon. In 1540 the Provence parliament issues the Mérindol decree which relaunches the persecution of the Waldenses. In 1545, Baron Meynier d'Oppède leads a bloody suppression of the Waldenses settled in the Luberon which results in more than 3000 deaths and more than 700 men condemned to the galleys.

La Motte d'Aigues

This is a fortified village founded in the 11th century. Condemned by the Mérindol decree as a village of the Waldenses, it was destroyed in 1545. The territory of the commune traces a thin band from the crest of the Grand Luberon to the foot of the hills which line the Eze Valley. All the pleasure of water can be found in the Bonde pond thanks to an enlightened lord, Fouquet d'Agoult, who had an aqueduct built in the 15th century so that he could create a pond. The pond is part of an irrigation network which is still in use and has a surface area of 30 hectares with depths of between 2 and 5 metres. Night market on Thursdays in summer with musical entertainment and eating places.

Cabrières d'Aigues

Also a target during the repression of the Waldenses, Cabrières d'Aigues is the village where the Roman bas relief depicting a boat laden with amphorae and casks was discovered with the first representation of the wine trade in the Durance area. Currently reproduced on the façade of the cooperative wine cellar of the village, the original bas relief is conserved in the Calvet museum in Avignon. Starting point for a hike up to Mourre Nègre, the crest of the Grand Luberon.

ALONG THE BANKS OF THE DURANCE PUGET, LAURIS, PUYVERT

Puget-sur-Durance

Miniature village invaded by luxurious vegetation.

Lauris

Nestled between the Luberon and the Durance, Lauris is perched on a rocky outcrop which until recently was crossed by the route which links Cavaillon to Pertuis and which brought it prosperity during the Middle Ages. Thanks to the dynamism of the local lords, the village enjoyed great prosperity and overflowed from its confines along the Cavaillon road to conquer the banks of the Durance and develop market gardens and crafts. With a population of 1200 inhabitants just before the Revolution the village spread to a new district on the road to Cadenet. Today, Lauris is famous for its olive oil and its asparagus. The old village is worth a visit and has a number of superb viewpoints of the Durance plain.

Bonnieux

THE PERCHED VILLAGE ROUTE OPPÈDE, LACOSTE, MÉNERBES, BONNIEUX

Characteristic of the Luberon foothills, these villages are to be found most often on a rocky outcrop, blocked by double ramparts, those of the village and those of the castle. Their raised position made it possible to watch the plains and communicate with signals.

Oppède-Le-Vieux

The commune was abandoned in the 17th century and its inhabitants settled in the hamlet of Poulivets. For almost 40 years now, the old village has been undergoing restoration work. It is recommended to take the road leading to the 12 century church, passing close by the ruins of the castle of Meynier d'Oppède, the main instigator of the repression against the Waldenses. Starting point for the vineyard trail: walk through the vineyards lasting approx. 1 hour 30 minutes.

Lacoste

Built close together, the houses are laid out in steps at the foot of the ruins of the castle of the Marquis de Sade. The site affords an exceptional panorama of the Ventoux, Luberon, Monts du Vaucluse and the perched villages. Lyrical arts festival in the month of August.

Ménerbes

Old dwellings, most of them private, give the village its proud appearance. Not to be missed: the church and old cemetery where the tranquillity and serenity of another age reign. Ménerbes is listed as one of the most beautiful villages in France. House of the Truffle and Wine: information and training centre. Tasting.

Bonnieux

The commune stretches from the crests of the Luberon to the Claparèdes plateau and the banks of the Calavon. From the current site, you can enjoy a remarkable panorama of the agricultural plain of the valley of Calavon, the Monts de Vaucluse and the Ventoux. Dominated by its high, partly Romanesque, partly Gothic church at an altitude of 425 meters, this pretty village commands the Lourmarin coomb, the only route crossing the Luberon.

Goult

Enjoy discovering Goult, this hidden village in the Luberon. Between Cavaillon and Apt on the national road no. 100 opposite the Luberon, our Lady of Light opens the door to a country of market gardening, fruit trees, vineyards and lavender.

Roussillon

Perched at the heart of deposits currently dormant, Roussillon is above all an artist's palette, a magical place where the combinations of oxides lend an infinite variety of colours to the ochres which are to be found in the landscape on the facades of the houses or on the trompe l'œil on a gateway.

Apt

Founded by the Romans on the Via Dominata and a major town in the Empire (ancient theatre, forum), Apt, the city of Saint Anne, is dedicated to the mother of the Virgin Mary. Its cathedral is one of the oldest in Provence. In days gone by, many pilgrims travelled to Apt to see the remains of the Saint, reputed to make women fertile. The market on Saturday mornings is one of the finest markets in Provence. World capital of candied fruit.
